

About six months ago a colleague informed me she had just been diagnosed with cancer. I prayed with her, declaring that the cancer was not from God, that it does not exist in Heaven and therefore has no place in her. I prayed her health would be restored and that her body would function in the manner that God designed it to. She stated that she grew up in the church and never knew God would and could move like that.

I saw her for the first time since that prayer yesterday and she informed me that that prayer got her through the last six months. Each day she declared over her body: “the cancer was not from God and had no place within her.” She thanked me for taking the time to pray for her and informed me that she is better!! (Chad Brady)
